511 HELP – The ITD 511 Transit Information web site is provided to help inform riders so they can make better decisions about travel in Idaho. The web site automatically adjusts to accommodate your screen dimensions, but typically it is best viewed at a resolution of 1024 X 768. It has been developed for use with Microsoft Internet Explorer or with Firefox. A free download of Microsoft Internet Explorer is available at Download Internet Explorer. A free download of the most recent version of Mozilla Firefox is available at Download Mozilla Firefox.
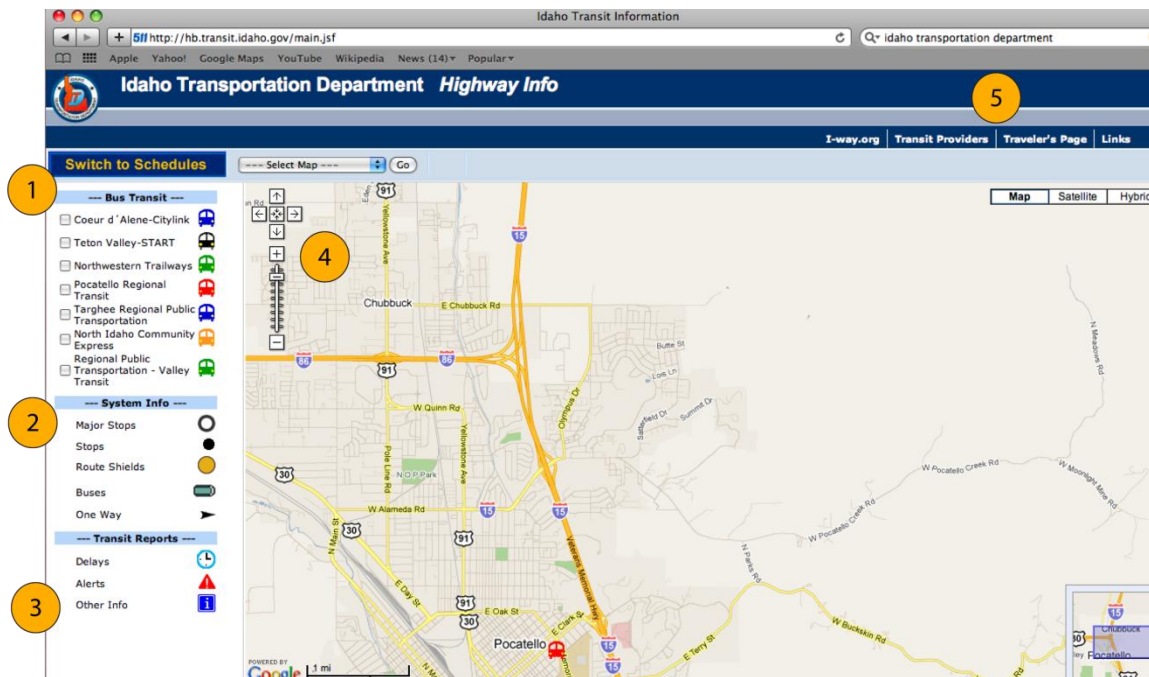

The screenshot above depicts the home page of the 511 Transit site. Here you are able to choose a transit provider, view the scheduled bus routes and stops, as well as view transit reports such as delays.

1 Transit Providers – Selecting one of the transit providers will allow you to make a route selection and gather information regarding the status of the bus along that particular route. This list will expand as additional transit providers come online.

2 System Information Symbols – Symbols are used to depict important items within the route, including:

O Major Stop – This stop is considered a timed stop. A bus may arrive earlier than the posted arrival time but may not leave earlier than the posted departure time.

Stop – Any place along the route where passengers may get on and off the bus.

Route Shield – The route shield is an icon that identifies the name of the route. The color of the route shield matches the color of the selected route.

Bus –The moving bus icon identifies the estimated bus location along the route. The color of the bus matches the color of the selected route.

One Way – Indicates the bus route is a one-way bus route.

3

Transit Reports - If one of these icons appears, click on the icon to get   further information.

Delay – Bus is running later than posted scheduled times.

Alerts – Transit situations the user needs to be aware of.

Other info – Other specific information a user will find helpful.

4

Pan and Zoom – The Google based map allows pan and zoom functions to better view specific regions, transit routes or events. Simply click on the pan and zoom buttons provided in the upper left of the Google map to adjust the view to your preference. You can also click and drag anywhere on the map to pan the map to a new location. The zoom and pan settings that are in the view when this page is closed will be retained when you return to the page, so you can create your own view for use on future visits to the web site.
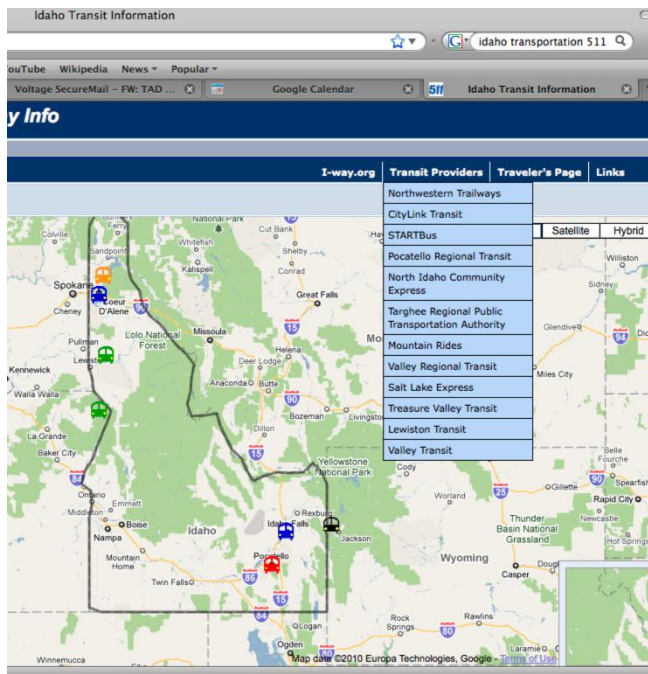

Additional Links

I-way.org – Clicking on the I-way.org link redirects site visitors to the main page of I-way.org, Idaho's resource for improving mobility and transportation options throughout the state.

Transit Providers – Drop down list provides links to Idaho transit provider websites for further details regarding provider services

Traveler's Page – Directs to 511 Traveler's Services main page, providing information regarding road closures, crashes, weather, and other road conditions.
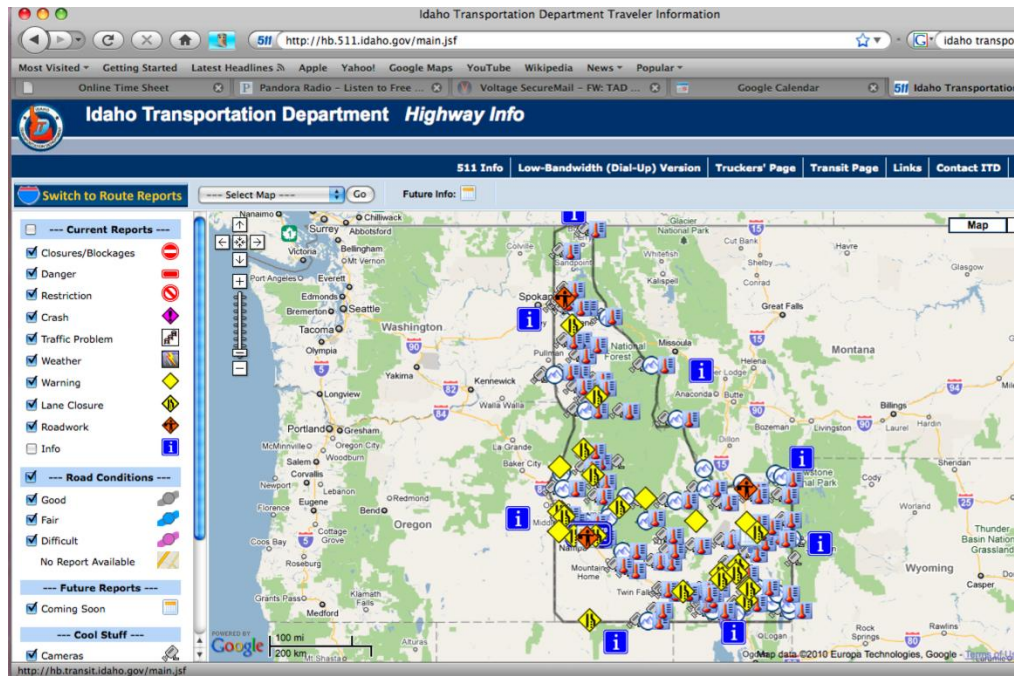

Links - Drop down list provides links to other helpful items, including phone and web help pages, contact information, National Weather Service, Tourism, and AMBER Alerts.
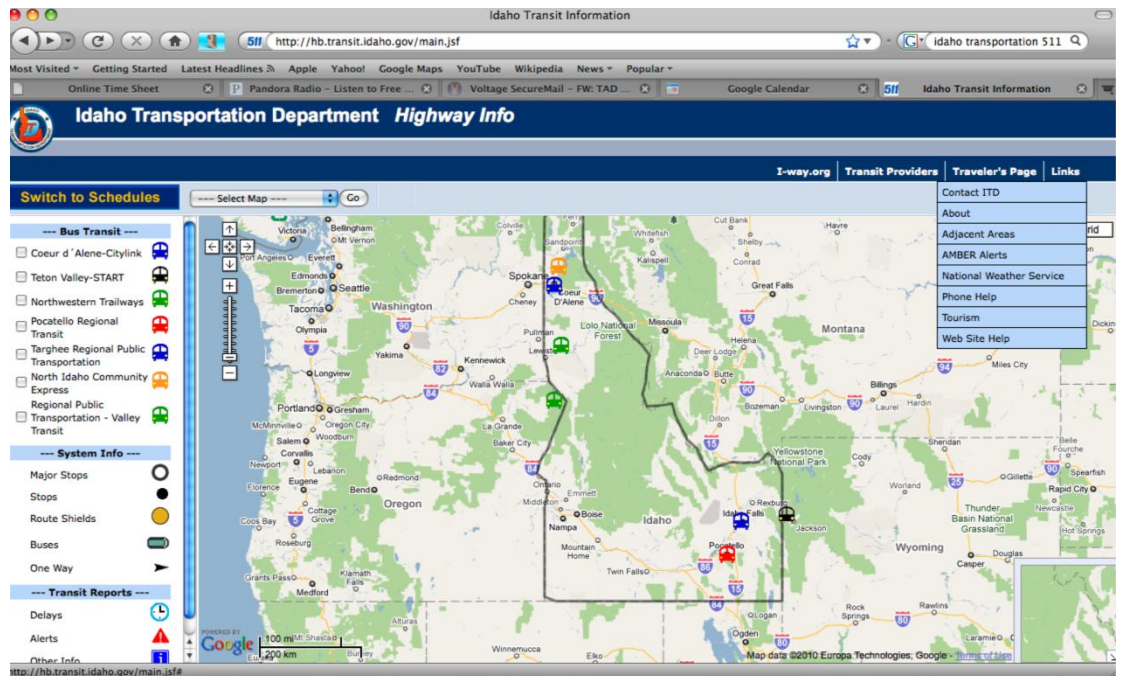

LET'S GET STARTED!

When you select a provider, a drop down of routes will appear. Clicking on a provider will also center the map on the provider's area of service.

Note – once the map centers on a specific provider, you may need to zoom-in or out further to better see the specific routes you are interested in.
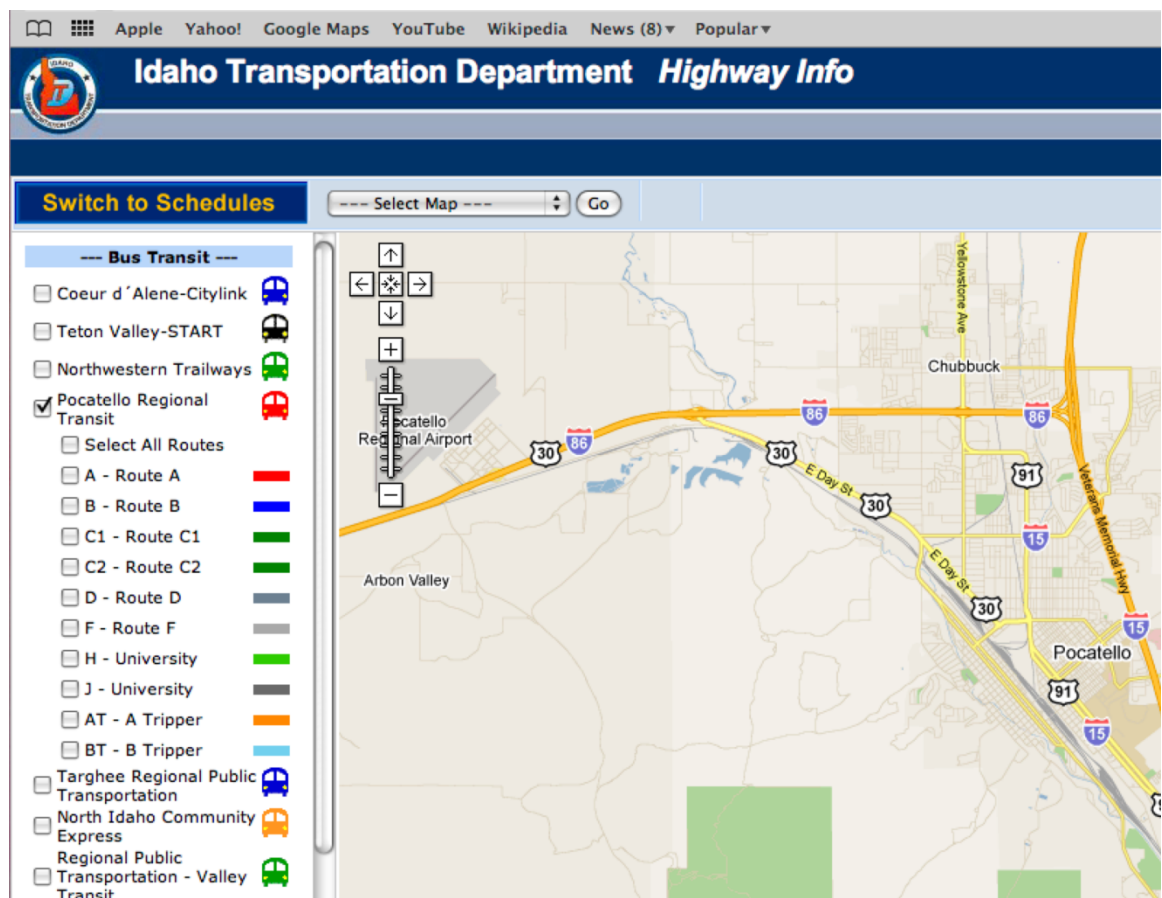

Select desired route, the corresponding route will appear on the map.

When the route appears, stop and bus icons may not be visible. Either zoom-in or double-click on the map to view the stops and the moving bus icon.
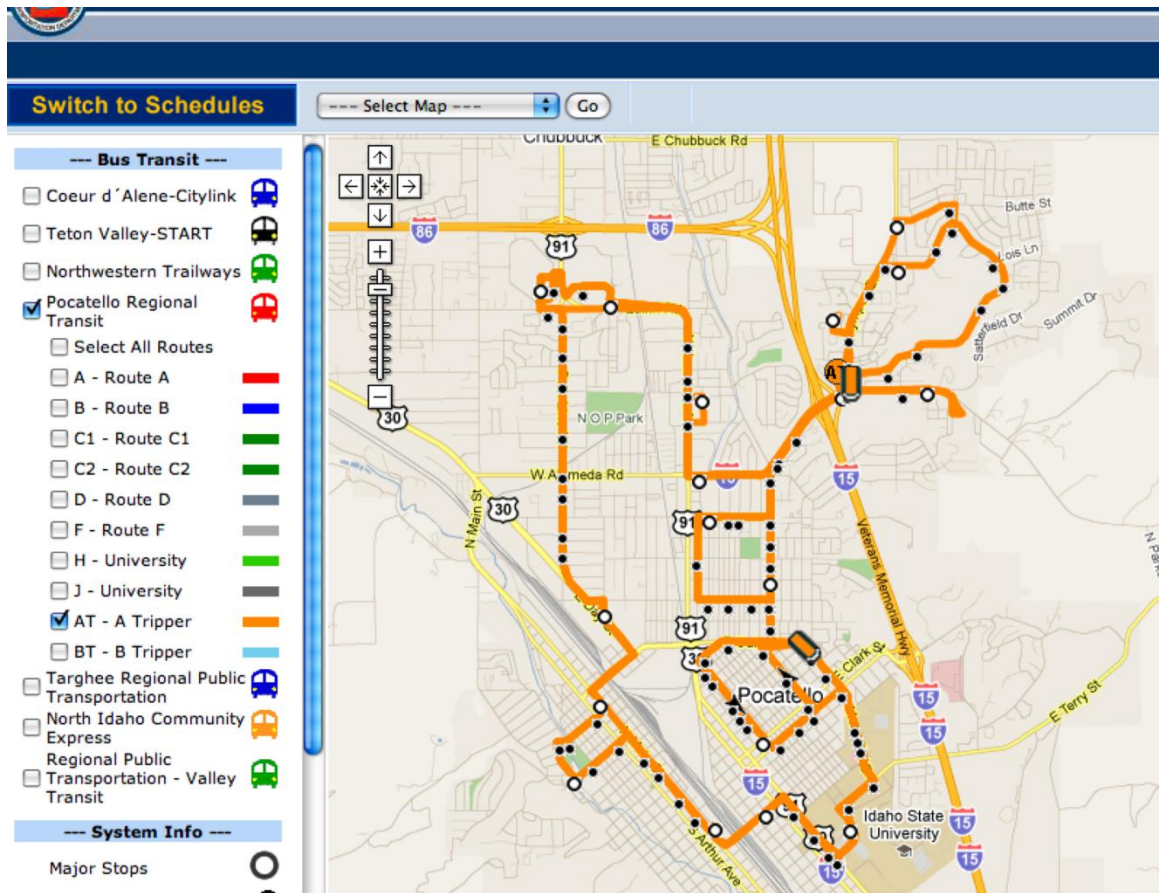

The moving bus icon indicates the bus position on the route.
There are two ways to view schedules:

A. Clicking the stop will provide the next three bus times – reporting scheduled arrival times and any delays. Selecting the Full Schedule link in the pop-up provides the full schedule for that route.

B. Clicking "Switch to Schedules" in the upper left corner of the screen provides the option to see the entire schedule for a particular route. In this schedule view, selecting "Switch to Map" will switch back to map/route view.
